This session will be an explanation and demonstration of how Kodak's MAG (Musculoskeletal Analysis Guide) package evolved as the core of the Company's ergonomic job improvement process. This is a comprehensive methodology for musculoskeletal job analysis and improvement. It was developed beginning in 2000 with the objective to enable and incent non-ergonomists to identify high-risk jobs, analyze them, and to develop, implement and track improvements. The presenters will review a case study to demonstrate how the MAG package is used in the overall process to improve jobs at Kodak.

Calling All Members

The President-Elect Officer position is open for next year. We are seeking volunteers or nominations for people who would like to fill the position.

The benefits associated with being a WNYAIHA Officer are numerous. Officers have the privilege of influencing occupational health and safety locally and nationally. The President-Elect position is particularly rewarding. A few benefits are as follows:

- * Opportunity to work with the President and board members to provide leadership to the local section.
- * Opportunity to network and collaborate with other professional organizations.
- * Opportunity to attend a leadership skills workshop at the National AIHA headquarters located near Washington DC.
- * Opportunity to make a difference!

Please contact Erica Logan or Rick Rote to volunteer for the position, or to ask any questions you may have about the responsibilities of the position.
