Agenda: 11:30 – 12:30 - Buffet Lunch – Italian/American
12:30 – 1:30 - Presentation
1:30 – 2:30 - Board of Directors Meeting

Topic: Nanoparticles – NIOSH Research Program

Many questions have been asked about the safety of dealing with free nanoparticles in the workplace during their production and their use in a growing number of "nano-enabled" products. NIOSH is aggressively pursuing answers with a comprehensive research agenda. This presentation will provide an update of that work.

Speaker: Laura Hodson, CIH

Laura Hodson is a certified industrial hygienist with NIOSH in Cincinnati, and is a member of the NIOSH Nanotechnology Field Research Team. She completed her undergraduate studies in chemistry and environmental studies at Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio and completed a Masters of Science in Public Health at UNC-Chapel Hill.

Prior to joining NIOSH, Laura was the industrial hygiene program manager and IH laboratory director at RTI International in Research Triangle Park, NC.
