Guidelines for Use of SDSRP Designation

Effective 2016 September 27

DESIGNATION USE

The SDSRP designation stands for Safety Data Sheet Registered Professional.

The SDSRP designation may be used on email, business cards, stationary, letterhead and similar documents on which the name of the individual registered is prominently displayed, as John Smith, SDSRP or Jane Doe, SDSRP.

The SDSRP designation may not be used in any manner which could bring AIHA Registry Programs, LLC into disrepute or in any way considered misleading or unauthorized. The SDSRP designation may not be used in any manner which would tend to imply a connection between any business and the registration which, in fact, may not exist. This includes any use of the SDSRP designation that the public might construe as an endorsement, approval or sponsorship by AIHA Registry Programs, LLC of a registrant's business or any product or service thereof.

DESIGNATION

When referring to your registration status in written text or verbally, the phrase to be used is “Safety Data Sheet Registered Professional”. For example, an introduction of a speaker might read: “Jane Doe is a Safety Data Sheet Registered Professional”. A resume might include: “Special Qualifications: Safety Data Sheet Registered Professional”
